

BizTalk + SharePoint: 1 + 1 = 3

Next Practices in Integration and Collaboration

BizTalk 2009 and SharePoint 2010 are used by more than 8000 companies world-wide for addressing the various application and business partner integration needs. BizTalk is a well known product for building SOA architectures. SharePoint – Microsoft's fastest growing product - is well known for its document management, collaboration, workflow, portal and search capabilities.

The integration of the two products actually brings a whole new set of capabilities to end-users. Visionet can help you bring the best out of these two products. Our years of expertise and best practices knowhow will make you more agile while lowering risks and costs. We can make BizTalk + SharePoint: 1+1=3.

Excellence @ Work: Microsoft BizTalk, SharePoint and Office based solution for New Vendor On-boarding

A large manufacturer with 750 vendors needed a streamlined process to onboard new vendors. The on-boarding meant setting up a profile in the ERP system, establishing EDI connection, integration with Compliance and Finance departments and more. The process for collecting information, reviewing, and approving across various groups was taking 900 hours on average. Visionet designed a streamlined, coherent and linearly architected solution using Microsoft solution suite to reduce the on-boarding effort and improve compliance.

The information was submitted by the new business partner through the SharePoint portal. SharePoint seamlessly interacts with Outlook and other Microsoft Office offerings. This solution streamlined submission, version control and storage of vendor artifacts. Once the information was approved the vendor profile was automatically setup in the ERP, Financial and Compliance systems using prebuilt adapters. The EDI connection was established with the vendor through BizTalk. BizTalk became the hub for all transactions and SharePoint became the "face" to the elaborate infrastructure behind it. The customer IT could monitor, investigate and fix the transactions through the SharePoint portal. The on-boarding time was cut in half.
